U. S. GRANT,
Will make Two Trips per Week to the City of Astoria!
Carrying Passengers at $10, the Round Trip, (Meals Included)

The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7½ A M Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 6 o'clock A M

Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 500 Prize Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867, for the following Prizes

Steamer U S GRANT, to be divided into 4 shares;
ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND, divided into 8 shares, or one lot to the share, viz Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 6, 7 and 8, Block 97, opposite the "New Columbian" Hotel, and at the terminus of the proposed Suspension Bridge,
ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;
100 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 3 shares, to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf

The Steamer is 54 tons burthen, 52horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 5 feet this is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrances, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same Tickets can be had of C P FERRIT, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered.

Any person having a claim against me, and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred

C P FERRIT, Broker, R J LADD, ex Sheriff, AL ZEIBER, U S. Marshal, and C S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland, are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time

☞ The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare
Portland May 21, 1867 d2m J W KERN

Notice.

OWING TO THE STEAMER U. S. GRANT having lost several regular trips, she will continue to run for a few weeks, to give all ticket holders an opportunity to travel The tickets stand good for a passage as long as the boat continues to run A few more tickets yet to be disposed of

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."
J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics News, and the development of the varied resources of the State In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State polity, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people The necessity for a Democratic organ finely planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE and with the State thoroughly Democratic to-day with all prospective changes in favor of that party there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention A twenty eight column paper, 24x38 inches in size will typify ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE

Terms of Subscription:

Single copy, one year	$3 00
Five copies one year	13 75
Ten copies one year	25 00

PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care, for ten years The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes

It having a tight cover the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all household cares and families and washing men and washing women

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it

At the World's Fair.

Hon E N Cooke, in a late letter to his family, in Salem, gives the following interesting items The reader must bear in mind, says the Record, that those extracts are taken from familiar home letters written with no view to publication. Mr. and Mrs Patton kindly consent that we should make this use of them

PARIS, July 3, 1867.—We are now in Paris, where we arrived on the 28th ult, well and in good spirits Here we have found our first letters from home, which though of old date bring us very welcome news.

We left London on the 20th for Southampton, passing through a fine country, but all England presents the same appearance The land is all hedged and stoned up into small fields and highly cultivated The buildings in the cities are old, plain and substantial, old castles and towers in almost every neighborhood, recalling historic events which some lazy guide is always ready to tell for a shilling.

Southampton is a very old city, has considerable shipping, splendid dry docks and grand old ruins We visited the notable places of the city, and the same night took a steamer for Havre, but had a rough time of it, high sea and head winds, but arrived at Havre at 10 o'clock next day. We made the tour of the city in a few hours and left for the old city of Rouen, where we remained all night It is the ancient capital of Normandy, seated on the river Seine, and is venerable and majestic in aspect and historical associations

Rouen has considerable commerce and contains a hundred thousand inhabitants. We visited many old churches, the cathedral Notre Dame, still in good preservation, though it contains the tombs of Richard Cœur de Lion, and his brother Henry, who died in 1183 These and other monuments were much injured by the Huguenots, in 1663. We visited the spot where the unfortunate and he role Joan d' Arc was burned alive as a sorceress in 1431, it is marked by a modern statue placed upon a fountain.

We were much entertained in this grand old old city, its natural beauty and odd old relics conspired to make our stay pleasant. We left in the afternoon for Paris. The railroad crosses the Seine a number of times, runs along the plain at times, or beside the river, with occasional tunnels, traversing one of the most beautiful and lovely countries in the world.

When we arrived in Paris we found that our baggage had preceded us safely, and was in the hands of the Custom House officers, who went through a form of examination. They didn't open a single trunk, but took our word for it, though neither of us understood a word that the other said.

We have taken rooms at the Hotel d' Votaire fronting the Tuileries, in the center of the city. Our rooms are on the first floor above the ground, fronting on a broad street There are trees along the Quai and river, and the palace and gardens are in full view. Carriages of all kinds stand at the door ready for hire, and small steamers ply up and down the river, to and from the Exposition.

Sunday we attended the American Episcopal Church Monday while near the Tuileries, we had an excellent opportunity to see the Emperor and the royal cortege. As we stood close to the line of soldiers, who formed in double line to the Palace of Industry, Champs-Elysees, where the Emperor was going to participate in the distribution of prizes, we saw the carriage pass the gates, when they halted the carriage of the Emperor immediately in front of us, giving us an opportunity to view the Imperial party, including the Emperor, Empress, Prince Imperial and Prince Napoleon. The gorgeous aspect of the whole affair, the high dignitaries and bodies of state all contributed to give us a high entertainment. Yesterday we spent in the exhibition, but the vast number of articles, and the great space to go over, will require several weeks to go through the whole as we desire

Paris is a wonderful city. Everything is high-toned and on a principle of magnificence. The Palace of the Exhibition is tremendous, covering thirty seven and one half acres. The Grand Entrance is near the river, where we land from the steamers.

To morrow is our Fourth of July, a day I reverence more than ever since seeing the effects of the governments of England and France on the common classes of mankind. We shall celebrate the day with the American citizens, who contemplate having a demonstration at the Grand Hotel.

JULY 5.—The celebration was postponed for this year, because of the receipt of the news of the death of Maximilian So we spent the day in the gardens of the Tuileries, and in attending the Exhibition. The last of the execution of Maximilian was received in Paris with astonishment and profound regret. Much wrath is felt toward Mexico for the murderous act.

We have now spent three days in the Exhibition and have not passed over half of the ground. We follow the circles in course to see everything, and constantly are finding some wonderful thing to examine The ladies are almost worn out, and make constant use of the seats provided in the passages I cannot describe the wonderful objects constantly presented to our view, which will be of course written up by regular correspondents for the press, and so reach you. We are still in company with Mr. J. S Smith and family, and find the association very delightful, as we possess general tastes in common and have the same ends in view It is now our intention to continue the tour of Europe in company. After the day is spent at the Exposition, Mr. Smith and myself generally take a walk in the City to see some place of note and improve the time. The ladies are done up for the day before that time.

If our lives are spared we shall edge through Europe and see the thing out.

The Sultan of Turkey stopped by us yesterday in the exhibition and we took a good look at him He is fine looking, dresses plainly in citizen's clothes, without any ornament, has a full face, short black whiskers, middle size, hair a little gray, wore a black cap with a red border. There was a vast crowd after him anxious for a look as he arrived at the ground, but the police dispersed them.

The death of Maximilian postpones some reviews and gain performances in prospect There was an imposing military display on the Sultan's arrival

We breakfast at the hotel, lunch wherever we may be, as Coffee Houses are every ten rods People eat at street stands and anywhere it suits them F N. COOKE.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 29, 1867.

Grant.—Sheridan.—Johnson.

Good for General Grant! A loyal people have not trusted him in vain. Day by day he is evincing his fidelity to their cause. Day by day he is laboring to make secure the results of the great struggle. His position has never been doubtful, though he has never appeared to so great advantage before the country as now. He is struggling on the side of the army which gave us our victories, and on behalf of a people who deemed no sacrifice too great for the salvation of their country, to check the mad designs of a faithless Executive, to put a stop to strife and prevent rebel ascendancy in the Republic. All honor to Grant for his bold letter to the acting President, protesting against the removal of Sheridan and other officers, and deprecating any further attempt on the part of the Executive to defeat the known wishes of the people. How like the blast of a trumpet rings every word of that fearless letter! And what a commentary it is on the recreancy of the man who occupies the highest office in the Republic, that these noble words from General Grant are received by the people as eagerly and gratefully as a draught of water is received by a thirsty man!

"This is a Republic where the will of the people is the law." So speaks General Grant. He realizes this truth if Johnson does not. General Grant "begs that the voice of the people may be heard." Johnson obstinately and criminally ignores it. He has done this from the first and will do it to the last. Did recreancy ever meet a more stinging rebuke than it has received in this letter from the General-in-Chief? The acting President is invoked in the name of a patriotic people to change his policy and let their voices be obeyed. That is, General Grant tells him in plain terms that his whole course is in direct opposition to the expressed will of the country, and is an outrage upon its patriotic sentiment. Again, Grant tells him in words which would sting him to the quick were he anything but the coarse, callous, conscienceless being that he is, that his action in regard to Sheridan "will be interpreted as a triumph for the unreconstructed element in the South and will emboldem them to new opposition to the loyal masses, believing that they have the Executive with them." These words would be sufficient if addressed to any one else in a like position, to call forth the exclamation:

> O, speak no more!
> The [illegible] my eyes into my very soul,
> And there I see such black and grained spots
> As will not leave their tinct.

This arraignment of Andrew Johnson is no less just than terrible. The rebel element of the South have long known that the Executive was with them. He has been their protector; he has encouraged and emboldened them in their opposition to the loyal masses; he has done his utmost to throw the Government into their hands. And now, in despite of the will of the nation, the laws of Congress and and the efforts of the soldiers through whose patriotism and valor the struggle was terminated, he persists in his endeavors to defeat the ends which all loyal citizens wish to attain and to cause the hard earned fruits of their victory to turn to dust and ashes in their hands.

What an result from the course of the acting President but a new boldness on the part of the rebels, fresh outrages in every part of the South, new accumulations among the different classes of people, an increase of bitterness and a renewal of animosities and a still further delay in the work of reconstruction? For, what Grant calls the "assassination element," will at last be compelled to submit, and there will be no reconstruction until assurances of their absolute submission are given. The sooner this result is reached, the sooner therefore will the work which is before the nation be finished. Every person knows that any interference on the part of the Executive with the faithful officers who have been performing their duties in the full spirit of the laws, will be regarded by the rebels of the South as a triumph on their side. Andrew Johnson has already been instrumental in delaying reconstruction for the space of two years, and is now using every effort to frustrate what has been done.

How characteristic of this man are his remarks on General Sheridan. It would seem that his greatest delight is to exhibit himself before the country with the descriptive word "liar" blazing upon his brazen front. When he says that "a bitter spirit of antagonism has resulted from Sheridan's management," he grossly lies. Sheridan has suppressed the rebel element in his district and the bitter feeling exists exclusively among that class who perpetrated the bloody riots in New Orleans, and who, ever since then have been numbered among Johnson's closest friends. Grant says that Sheridan has performed his civil duties faithfully and intelligently; shall we believe Johnson sooner than Grant? Again, when Andrew Johnson says that Sheridan's course "has seriously interfered with the harmonious and satisfactory execution of the laws of Congress," he lies even more basely than before. One of the first acts of Congress at the late special session was to pass a resolution expressly thanking Sheridan for his efficiency in enforcing the laws, both in letter and spirit. Congress says that General Sheridan has done his duty in enforcing the laws Johnson arraigns him for having interfered with their execution. Who ever knew a more palpable case of unscrupulous, malignant mendacity? Not content with throwing his whole influence on the side of the enemies of the country, Andrew Johnson must asperse its ablest and most meritorious defenders. Again, how like the man is his hypocritical declaration that he has never "obstructed the faithful execution of any act of Congress." He has the effrontery to tell the country this at the very moment when he is removing from command those officers who have been most energetic in carrying the laws into effect. This is of a piece with his many former declarations that he would enforce the laws, though obviously intending from the first to do what he could to defeat their execution. He removes officers solely because of their honest and efficient efforts in enforcing the laws of Congress, and then with brazen impudence declares that he has not obstructed the execution of any act of that body. Not more false was his declaration when he said that he would make treason odious and punish traitors. Not more false was his intention when before his election to the Vice Presidency he proclaimed in a public speech: "While society is in this disordered state, and we are seeking security for the future, let us fix the foundations of the Government in the principles of eternal justice which will endure for all time." Not more false was his purpose when with the idea of deceiving the loyal masses after his succession to the Presidency, he continued to fulminate against treason, and denounce traitors, though all the while using his influence to make treason and traitors respectable. His reputation as regards veracity is already well known, and when he says he has never obstructed any of the acts of Congress, the declaration may be put in the same category with the thousand other notorious falsehoods of which everybody knows him to be guilty. "The pity of it, the pity of it," that the man who sits in the seat of Washington is not above the vice of lying!

Yet this man refers to his "antecedents" to show that his action cannot "embolden the people (rebels) against the loyal masses, believing that have the Executive with them!" There can be no such result as this, for the Southern people "are perfectly familiar with his antecedents!" This is the way he replies to Grant's charge that his his action is inciting renewed opposition in the South. His antecedents, indeed! This is just where the Southern reactionists rest their hopes. It is because of their perfect familiarity with his antecedents that they are now turbulent and restive and looking to him for help. Had they not received hopes of assistance from this quarter, they would have become perfectly submissive long ago. Their knowledge of his antecedents gives them now courage continually. This is the country's greatest trouble. Andrew Johnson is the last man who should refer to his antecedents as proof his future course, and he would never do it

> If damned custom had braved him so
> That he is proof and bulwark against shame.

It is a relief to turn from the contemplation of this compound of egotism, of falsehood, of dishonesty, of malignancy and of wicked ambition, to view the noble course of General Grant. This officer is giving the country now cause to manifest its gratitude toward him, which there seems to be every probability it will do soon by placing him in the seat now filled by an accidental incubus upon the spirit and wishes of the nation. It has been a remark of the Copperheads that "Grant has no politics." Possibly they are beginning to discover their mistake. But whether they think he has any politics or not, makes little difference, he has enough to satisfy every wish of the loyal masses. They are satisfied with what he has done and said. They want nothing better, nothing more.

How the Copperheads Admire the Soldiers.

The following delectable sentences are from the Copperhead organ of this city:

> It is not strange that Grant should consent to a policy which places in his hands powers greater than any European monarch dare exercise. It would be marvelous indeed if such men as Dan. Sickles, Phil. Sheridan, and the like should refuse to endorse such measures which transferred them from pot-house politicians and emboiterers in the army to military despots, with unlimited power over the life, property, and liberty of millions of people. Those men know precisely the conditions of the acceptance of those positions. They know that their positions and future promotion depended upon the retention of power by the Radical party.

Of course Grant, Sickles and Sheridan did not rise by reason of their merits, but were "transformed" into great men by a single act of Congress. This is the Copperhead idea. As for their being politicians, the only one of the three who ever engaged in politics at all was Sickles, and he was a Democrat. If he was a pot-house politician, it was a Democratic pot-house which he visited, and and a Democratic crowd he associated with. The last sentence of the extract is particularly noticeable for its animus. It appears that the positions and the future promotions of our soldiers depend on the retention of power by the "Radical" party. That is as much as to say if the Copperheads ever get the power they will dismiss our military officers from their positions and supply their places with others; perhaps with officers lately in the rebel service. The Copperheads cannot conceal their malice towards the national soldiers. Isn't it a fine prospect for an officer of the army with such a declaration as the above staring him in the face, to contemplate the restoration of the Democratic party to power?

Gen. Grant says it is the "unmistakably expressed wish of the country that Sheridan should not be removed." Johnson replies to this by saying that he is not conscious that the question of removing Sheridan has ever been submitted to the people for their determination." This is a piece of pettifogging that would disgrace a Tennessee village lawyer, and is worthy of no one except Johnson.

A distinguished Democrat says that the decision in the Rosenheim case is in favor of the Democratic party. That is to say, Rosenheim is driven out of the party by the decision. As it is certain he is not in the Republican party, some may be disposed to inquire where he is. It has been suggested that they look for him in the limbo of lost things or the paradise of fools.

Transacting Custom House Business on Sundays.

ASTORIA, August 24, 1867.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The practice of allowing shipping to enter and clear at the Custom House, at the port of Astoria, on Sunday, is one that has prevailed from the establishment of the Custom House at that port. This, I think, is not done at any other Custom House in the United States. Nor, indeed, should the practice be continued any longer at Astoria. And yet, we presume many would be dissatisfied, and be loud in their denunciations against the Collector of the port, should he do as all the other Collectors do—keep the Custom Houses closed on Sundays. Already have we heard men, and prominent men too, assert that if the Custom House should be closed on Sunday, that they would have the Custom House removed to Portland. I do not think one or two men in Oregon own the Custom House. And further, I care not how numerous or how influential they may suppose themselves to be who desire the Sabbath thus profaned, their efforts would be futile. I believe that if the practice had even been reported to the Department, an imperative order would have been sent to the Collector to discontinue it at once.

We say that the Sunday law is violated as plainly by allowing a vessel to enter and clear on Sunday as if any other secular labor or business had been performed. Oaths must be administered, and certificates to money must be paid and receipts given. General Laws of Oregon, page 504, section 653, reads as follows: If any person shall keep open any store, shop, grocery, ball alley, billiard room, tippling house, or any place of amusement, or shall do any secular business or labor, other than the works of mercy, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or the Lord's day, such person, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine not less than five, nor more than fifty dollars. We hope that the law may not have to be resorted to in order to close the Custom House at Astoria, for it would be a disgrace upon our Government.

I have understood that the present Collector was going to close the Custom House on Sundays, allowing no business appertaining to it, to be done on that day. All good citizens should sanction this when done.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—This morning, while the brig Scarsio, for Rio Janeiro, and schooner Sarah Louise for Shoalwater Bay, were bearing out of the harbor, they collided when close to Fort Point, and both received such damage as obliged them to return to port.

Timothy McCarty filed complaint to-day against James Bennett. He says Bennett, on the 23d, sent him a challenge to fight a duel with him, and that he refused to accept it. As soon as his refusal was made known, Bennett caused posters to be printed and exposed them at various public places in the city, containing certain reprehensible and contemptuous language concerning the complainant. The poster is made a part of the complaint, and reads as follows: On Sunday 18th inst., the undersigned was set upon and brutally beaten by one Timothy McCarty, in his own house on Washington street, between Montgomery and Kearney, and in a most cowardly manner. I therefore publish him as a coward for certain reasons well known to himself. Bennett is under arrest.

DATES TO AUGUST 28.

Washington News

NEW YORK, Aug 27.—The Washington specials are contradictory relative to cabinet changes. The Times' special is able to state on the best authority, that the President now has the formal written resignation of every member of his cabinet.

The Herald's special says that McCulloch's resignation will probably be the last accepted, though it is pretty certain that he will be permitted to retire after a while. It is reported that McCulloch's administration has been of great service to the Government.

The Tribune special says it is intimated that Grant will soon ask to be relieved from the duties of the war office.

Ward H. Lamon is being pushed forward for Randall's place by the Democrats, represented by the Intelligencer. Jerry Black is mentioned as toward a successor.

The Bureau of Rebel Archives is to be closed. This bureau was organized by Stanton. It contains all the captured records, civil an military.

Nearly a hundred and twenty millions in gold are in the Treasury, and fifty-one millions in currency.

The order assigning Gen Hancock to Louisiana as soon as he is relieved of his present command by Sheridan. He will, when necessary to the faithful execution of the trust, exercise any and all powers conferred on district authority pertaining to officers in command of military departments. Sheridan will immediately turn over his command to the officer next in rank, and proceed direct to Fort Leavenworth to relieve Hancock. Thomas relative command of the department of the Cumberland.

WASHINGTON, Aug 27.—Great excitement prevails over the positive statement of the resignation of nearly all the Cabinet. One at least was given in to-night in such terms as will insure acceptance. The friends of Jerry Black telegraphed to him, urging him to return to Washington forthwith.

CHICAGO, Aug 27.—A Tribune special has another printed correspondence between the President and Grant to-day. Grant wrote an urgent letter against the transfer of Hancock to Sheridan's command, saying that the interests of the service would suffer and very grave complications might be expected. In loyal circles a rupture between the President and Grant is considered imminent. The latter refuses to yield any portion of the power Congress conferred upon him.

CHICAGO, Aug 28.—The Times' special says there is no truth in the statement that the President has received the resignation of all the Cabinet Ministers. McCulloch's resignation was written, but he concluded not to present it, having been informed by the President that he would not accept it. Randle submitted his resignation, and leaves for New York to night. Seward appears indifferent to what is going on, and informed Count B., the French Minister, that he did not believe there would be any Cabinet changes.

Regarding Grant, there is no doubt that he is indignant at the order removing Sickles. He attended the Cabinet meeting to-day, but left before its conclusion. Congressman Washburn freely states that Grant is thoroughly opposed to the President's present course.

Col. Frank Sherman will be appointed Postmaster at Chicago to-day vice to-day by order of Gen Grant.

Major Johnson, Stanton's private Secretary was to-day mustered out of the volunteers service by order of Gen Grant.

The Tribune's special says the President's order in regard to Hancock and Canby, will probably be issued to-morrow with a clause similar to that issued in the case of Thomas. Grant considers the order to Hancock as directed at himself and an additional usurpation of power conferred on the General of the army by Congress. Three powers Grant will not yield.

It is generally expected that Johnson will relieve Grant as Secretary of War and appoint some willing tool, but Grant claims that under the last reconstruction bill all orders must pass through the army headquarters. All orders of the President or Secretary relative to military must be issued through the General of the army, and orders issued contrary to this action are null and void, and the officer issuing them guilty of a misdemeanor.

The Tribune's special says the publication of Rosseau's letter has brought out the fact that Rosseau promised several Senators that if he was confirmed as a Brigadier-General he would have nothing to do with politics.

James Dunlavy, Write commissary at Andersonville, has escaped from Fort Pulaski, where he was serving out his sentence of fifteen year's imprisonment for cruelties on Union soldiers.

The President has offered to appoint John M. Langdon, a colored orator of Ohio, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, or any colored person whom the Freedmen agree on. Langdon has urged the retention of Gen. Howard, giving it as his opinion that the real interests of the colored people require it. Johnson replied that he considered Howard an ambitious, corrupt and hypocritical man, and that he did not have the true interests of the freedmen at heart. He intended to appoint somebody who was a true friend of the black man, and said he would wait a week for Langdon to accept, and in case the latter will not, he believed that the President designs putting the Bureau into irretrievable disorder by the appointment of a civilian Commissioner, rendering necessary the resignation of many officers who could not do duty under civilians, or who would refuse to serve under a colored man.

The Rupture between the President and General Grant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—It is believed by prominent gentlemen that the differences between Grant and the President in reference to the removal of Sheridan and Sickles are reconcilable. The order issued by the President relieving these officers has not been executed. It is said that Grant, in a letter to the President, declines to direct the order to be executed, stating his refusal in strong terms, and virtually denying the right of the President to interfere in the military districts created by Congress, and asserting that the entire control of these districts by virtue of the supplemental reconstruction act is vested in the General of the army alone. He says that he is not at liberty and will not transfer his authority to another. The letter has not been made public, but the above statement is believed to be reliable, and derived from usually well informed sources.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—The City Council met last evening His Honor Mayor Chapman presiding. Present—Messrs. Besser, Burch, Fechheimer, Hallock, Mulkey, Porter, Ripley and Rosenblum.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES.

Bills of Co., and numerous others, petitioned for the erection of an iron lamp post on the corner of Stark and Second street. Granted, and the Street Commissioner instructed to have the work done.

James Downey presented a remonstrance to the granting of the petition of Jos Knott, representing that he owns his living by hauling water from the river; that the best of Stark street is the only practicable place of access to the river; that if the petition of Knott be granted, it will deprive him of the means of earning a livelihood, and subject poor families to hard ship, who are too poor to lay down water pipes and buy water of the Portland Water Co. The remonstrance was referred to the Committee on Landings and Wharves.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Streets and Public Property reported an ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving Alder street.

The Committee on Landings and Wharves, to which was referred the petition of Joseph Knott, reported an ordinance, amendatory of an existing ordinance, establishing a ferry landing at the foot of Stark street.

The Committee on Health and Police to whom was referred the bills of C. W. Burrage for services, reported the same correct and recommended payment. Adopted.

The same committee, to whom was referred the bill of F. O. Paine, reported recommending payment of $50 of the bill. Adopted.

The same committee reported a recommendation that the following bills be paid: J. J. Hillman fees for May, $125; Brannan, fees $48 70; Hudson, fees, $39 50; Townsend, fees, $14 50. The report adds that the payment of these bills will leave a deficit which added to former deficit, will amount to $470. The report therefore, was accompanied by an ordinance making an appropriation to supply the deficit. The report was adopted; they find the city charter contains no provision for such an emergency as the message indicates, the refusal of the Recorder to deliver process to A Rosenheim, Marshal elect, that the officers of the city have been compelled to resort to the State courts, etc., etc. The report goes on to say that the Recorder's refusal to recognize such Marshal has given rise to confusion; that arrests made and service of processes by the person recognized by the Recorder as Marshal is illegal, that there is, therefore no power to enforce the laws; that Recorder Hoffman's conduct in the premises is in violation of his trust as a public officer, for which the Council should hold him responsible; that there is evidently something wrong in the affairs of the Recorder and Marshal; that the suspicion of wrongful conduct is strengthened by the fact that three is a great falling off in the receipts to the Treasury from the Recorder's court; that this fact justifies the appointment of a committee to investigate, etc. The report was adopted by the following vote: Yeas—Messrs. Frohheimer, Hallock, Porter, Ripley and Rosenblum—5. Nays—Messrs. Besser, Burch and Mulkey—3.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

A report was received from Thos G. Young, Chief Engineer of Fire Department, stating that certain of the engine companies are in need of oil, and recommending that all necessary repairs be made to engine houses before the rainy season. Referred to the Committee on Fire and Water.

The Street Commissioner reported a recommendation that four wooden lamp posts on the line of the second street improvement, be replaced by iron lamp posts. Referred to the committee on Streets and Public Property.

The Street Commissioner also reported that he had notified the contractor of Front street improvement to do the additional work required by the Council. This report also contained an estimate of the cost of such additional work—$145. Report ordered to be filed.

A report was received from the Surveyor, containing estimate of the cost of improving Second street from Madison to Harrison; referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE CITY.

The bills of the Daily Herald for advertising notices and ordinances, $382 25, were ordered paid. The bill of Marshal Hoyt, for expenses incurred in the care of city rooms to Aug. 15th, $6, was presented and the Council by vote refused to pay it.

BUSINESS LYING ON THE TABLE.

The claims of D Fellows, for cure of small-pox patient and loss of property thereby, and of Charles Lee, for witness fees, were taken from the table and referred.

READING OF ORDINANCES.

An ordinance authorizing the Committee on Streets and Public Property and the street Commissioner to contract for the improvement of Fourth street, was read three several times and passed by yeas, all present.

An ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving Alder street, was read first and second times.

An ordinance to amend ordinance No 50, establishing a ferry landing at the foot of Stark street, was read first and second times.

An ordinance fixing the compensation of City Recorder, was read first and second times. [Fixes salary at $300 per year.]

An ordinance appropriating $100 to constitute the Recorder's Court fund, was read first and second times.

An ordinance to provide for the construction of two fire cisterns, was read three several times and passed by yeas, all present. [Provides for cisterns at junction of Washington and Seventh streets, and junction of First and Mill streets.]

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Hallock offered resolutions which were adopted, that it is expedient to open B street westwardly to the county road, and that the Surveyor be instructed to survey and estimate cost.

Mr. Hallock offered a resolution which was adopted, that of ordinances declaring assessments for street improvements, only such portions be published as relate to location, description of property and the amounts of assessments.

Mr. Fechheimer offered a resolution reciting that whereas the Recorder while acting as Justice of the Peace, is using the Council Chamber and furniture belonging to the city, therefore, ten days notice be given him to vacate the Council Chamber, for such purposes: provided: that he may be permitted to use it while transacting business as Justice of the Peace, for a monthly rent of $25.

The question to adopt the resolution, was taken and the Mayor announced that he was in doubt as to the vote; whereupon the yeas and nays were called for and resulted as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Fechheimer, Hallock, Riply and Rosenheim—4.

Nays—Messrs. Burch, Mulkey and Porter—3.

Mr. Besser, when his name was called failed to vote either way.

The resolution was declared adopted.

The Mayor appointed as special committee to investigate the affairs of the Recorder, Messrs. Hallock, Fechheimer and Porter.

The Council adjourned.

THE STATE OF OREGON VS. H. L. HOYT.—In accordance with the stipulations of the parties, in the suit against Marshal Hoyt, the petition for mandamus was abandoned and an action at law was begun yesterday morning, the State of Oregon being plaintiff upon the relation of A. Rosenblum and H. L. Hoyt, defendant. The pleadings being filed, plaintiff demurred to the answer of defendant and the argument of the demurrer consumed the greater part of the day. The answer sets up, in substance, that H. L. Hoyt was elected to the office of Marshal to serve till his successor shall be duly elected and qualified, that he has not been displaced from the office, admits that Rosenheim received five out of nine votes in the Council, but alleges that one of those votes was cast by himself for himself; that such vote was not legal, that the Council has no lawful right to elect one of its own members to a city office; that Rosenheim at the pretended election was a member of the Council, and that, therefore, no successor to the defendant has been legally elected and qualified. The plaintiff demurred to this answer as containing improper matter. After the argument, the court decided, in substance, that the power of the City Council as derived from the Legislature by the charter, that the Legislature could grant to the Council no higher or other powers than itself had under the Constitution; that as the Legislature cannot elect one of its own members to an office of profit or trust, it could not grant such power to the City Council. This being so, that part of the answer which avers the mode of election, contains proper matter to be shown in the trial. There were two or three other points decided incidentally, all adverse to the positions taken in the demurrer; the demurrer was therefore overruled. Practically, the decision on the demurrer is a decision of the whole case, favor of Hoyt, the incumbent.

A CHINESE JURY HANGS.—At the court house yesterday, we found six Chinamen arranged "all in a row," in the office of Sheriff Stiles, some of them leaning against the wall asleep, while others looked as though they were sorry their names were not something else. The general appearance of this celestial gathering was for all the world like that of a jury in a tough case, with many lawyers on each side. On inquiry, we learned that they were a gang of fellows arrested for refusal to pay their poll taxes and were awaiting the arrival of a road supervisor who would take them out upon the highways to work out the value of their taxes and costs. It seems the law provides that in case of refusal of Chinamen to pay their poll-taxes, $3 each, they may be arrested and made to work it out on the public roads at the rate of 50 cents per day. This law has not heretofore been strictly enforced in this county and the county has therefore lost several hundred dollars per year of taxes, due. The taxes on Chinamen, will this year amount to several hundred dollars. So many of them had refused to pay that Sheriff Stiles concluded they had enjoyed exemption from the public burdens, about long enough. The whole lot will remain under arrest till they either pay or work out taxes and costs.

THE FIRST CAR.—We met a gentleman, yesterday (or rather, he ran across the street to overtake us, who exclaimed, "The Oregon and California road is a sure thing at the first car has arrived!" Ah! how is that? said we. "The first car has actually arrived—overland—last night now in this city—Jesse D. Carr, you see!" We did see—a twinkle in the eye of our informant, from which we knew the gentleman was on a pun intent. Jesse D. Carr is the new mail contractor and arrived here night before last to make arrangements for the transfer of the mail agement. He is accompanied by Messrs. Hall, Crandall and Buckley, all old stage men of California. The transfer of the service will take place on the first of October. It is supposed, as a matter of course, that the particular business of the gentleman named is to negotiate for the stage stock and coaches of Mr Cosbett's line.

GRAND LODGE I O G T.—The annual session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of Oregon and Washington Territory, will be opened in this city Tuesday October 3d. The P T Company has generously offered to carry all delegates to the Grand Lodge at half fare. This is understood to be a standing arrangement with all the Grand Lodges of the State. Mr. Church writes that there is little doubt that the Echo will be able to reach Albany on her regular days, Tuesday and Friday, and thus accomodate all the delegates from Lodges there and at places intermediate.

MILITARY ITEMS.—It is understood that Brevet Major-General Elliott, Lieut Col 1st U S Cavalry, is ordered to Fort Boise. This order will carry the headquarters of the regiment to that post.... Maj W. H Johnston, Paymaster U S A, is on a tour of duty to pay the troops in Boise, county, Oregon, Fort Boise Camp Lyon Camp Stocks of the Quarter, and such troops as he may reach in the field. Maj J R Meigs Quartermaster U S A, is now on his way to pay the troops at Camp Lincoln Camp Watson at the new post on Silvies river in Malheur country and such troops as he can reach in the field. It is expected that Paymaster Green, Paymaster U S A will pay the troops at the Dalles and at the mouth of the Columbia on their October rolls.

ACCIDENT.—James Fitzgerald, who lives on the farm of R Pittock, while out hunting yesterday accidentally shot himself. The whole load from his shot gun entered his breast just below the shoulder. A portion of the load passed out at the arm pit, but the larger portion passed on towards the back, and now lies under the shoulder blade. Dr Watkins who was in attendance informs us that he has probed freely, the blood coming freely saturating the bed and forming a large pool on the floor. The bleeding was staunched but owing to his great loss of blood, no attempt was made to remove shot, wadding, etc which will necessitate quite an operation. This will be attended to in a day or two. He was in a comfortable condition last evening.

AN OUTRAGE.—Mr L Kiernan, the sexton of Lone Fir Cemetery, complained to us yesterday that some person unknown, has removed an Acacia tree from the tomb of the late Major P J Hilton. Mr Kiernan has been always careful to warn visitors against even breaking off twigs from their shrubs and he feels that the sanctity of the place has been grossly outraged by this removal of an entire shrub. In this every person of right feeling will agree with him. The desecrator of a tomb is no means a creature that he might search through earth and hell without discovering an act too despicable for him to do.

MR. O'CONNOR.—The condition of Mr O'Connor, we learn, is quite critical. His wound, from the first was an extremely bad one, and it has been more or less aggravated by the effect of the extremely warm weather of the last few days upon the nervous system of the patient. When not under the influence of sedatives he is subject to nervous spasms. Grave fears are entertained that his recovery is impossible.

PASSENGERS FOR PORTLAND.—The steamship Montana sailed on Tuesday the 24th for Portland with the following list of passengers: J Bradford F Newton, John Lovy & wife, S Crawford, D F Harrington, John Blake, M. Aiken & wife, M Denny, J Herrin & wife, A. Loveridge, G A Moore wife & child, Lo Given, G W. Crants, L Friedlich, D Isaacs, J Rider, Rev L. N Story.

MOTION TO DISSOLVE INJUNCTION.—Some days since an injunction was granted by Judge Shattuck, upon the application of the defendant in the late suit of Carr, et al vs Monroe, to restrain plaintiff from selling the property of defendant on execution. Yesterday the plaintiffs came into court and moved for a dissolution of the injunction; motion argued and decision reserved.

PASSAGE FOR VICTORIA.—The steamer Fidelity sailed for Victoria yesterday at seven o'clock P M., with the following freight: 1,605 qr sks flour, 110 pkgs mdse, 1 cases bacon, 5 cases lard, 160 sks wheat, 10 cases dried peaches, 25 half bbls dried apples, 2 half bbls butter, 240 sks middlings, 125 bags oats, 130 boxes fruit and 3 boxes eggs.

NEW BELL.—Vigilance Hook and Ladder Co, having completed its bell-tower, hoisted their new bell to its position yesterday and it is now in readiness to ring out an alarm whenever occasion may require it. We understand that the company will ask a few friends at their house this evening for the purpose of commemorating the event.

SUIT BEGUN.—Mr. Heulitt, attorney for A. F. Hedges of Clackamas county, yesterday, began suit for Mr. Hedges against Wm. Strong, administrator of the estate of A Holbrook, to recover on contract, a breach of which is alleged. The amount sued for is a large one.

EXECUTOR'S SALE POSTPONED.—The Executor's sale of city property belonging to the estate of Wm. A. Ebbinger, advertised to take place yesterday at 12 o'clock, did not occur, in consequence of the want of bidders. The sale is postponed to Saturday the 31st.

FOR THE BEST MADE CLOTHING go to Herman Bros, on corner of Front and Morrison street, in the store formerly known as the City of Paris store.

DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS

Have been of great service in making people healthy, and keeping them so. They should be found in every household.

They give tone to the Stomach, vigor to the body, and remove dark doubts and unhappy feelings from the mind. They relieve pain and fortify the whole system against the attacks of disease.

There is nothing better to take "for the Stomach sake" than the PLANTATION BITTERS.

They cure Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Indigestion, Drowsiness, Headache, Pain in the Side, Liver Complaint, and Rheumatic Pains, with magical power.

A good effect is felt at once upon making the first trial. No change of diet is necessary. Eat the best you can get and all you want. Follow our directions and you will soon feel

WELL, STRONG AND HEARTY.

A great many side hits are being made at the Plantation Bitters, by a score or two of disinterested friends who have endeavored to imitate or counterfeit them. It's all of no use. The people won't be imposed upon. The Plantation Bitters are increasing in use and popularity every day, and "that's what's the matter." They are the same sized bottle, and made just as they were at first, and will continue to be, or we shall stop making them.

They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhœa, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They are the best Bitters in the world. They make the weak strong, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. The Recipe and full Circular are around each bottle. Clergymen, Merchants, and persons whose sedentary habits induce weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, liver complaint, constipation, &c., will find immediate and permanent relief in these Bitters. But above all, they are recommended to weak and delicate females and mothers.

They are sold by all respectable merchants. See that each bottle has our private United States Stamp over the cork and steel-plate side label.

Beware of refilled bottles. See that the stamp has not been tampered with. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon is a swindler and impostor, and should be immediately reported to us.

Mustang Liniment.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS SAVED!

Gentlemen:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment. It soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our team boys used it for Burns, Bruises, Sores, Rheumatism, &c., and all say it acts like magic. J. W. HEWITT

Foreman American, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

"The sprain of my daughter's ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug 1, 1865. ED. SEELY."

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery men and planters should always have it on hand. Quic and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing U. S. Stamp of DEMAS BARNES & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone-plate label. Look closely!

Lyon's Katharion.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Katharion will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is visibly increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

E THOMAS LYON, Chemist, N. Y.

Lyon's Extract Ginger.

LYON'S EXTRACT OF PURE JAMAICA GINGER—for Indigestion, Nausea, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Cholera Morbus, Flatulency, &c., where a warming stimulant is required. Its careful preparation and entire purity make a cheap and reliable article for culinary purposes. Sold everywhere at 50 cents per bottle. Ask for "LYON'S" PURE EXTRACT. Take no other.

CAUTION—See that the private U. S. Stamp of DEMAS, BARNES & Co is over cork of each bottle. None other is genuine.

Lyon's Flea Powder.

DEATH TO FLEAS.—It is well known that Lyon's genuine Magnetic Powder will perfectly destroy everything in the shape of fleas, ticks, bed-bugs, roaches, &c., that it is perfect poison to the insect tribe, but strictly harmless to the human species and domestic animals. The genuine has the signature of E. LYON, and the private stamp of DEMAS, BARNES & Co. Anything else of this kind is an imitation or counterfeit. Any druggist will procure the genuine if you insist you will have no other.

A Mother's Wish.

BY GEORGE COOPER.

"If I were a fairy—
Now listen unto me—
And had the power to grant a wish,
What should the baby be?
Would you wish these little hands
Might gather wealth untold?
Would you wish this little head
Might win a name of gold?

"Would you wish this prattling tongue
Might sway the hearts of all?
Would you wish a golden crown
Upon these curls to fall?
Tell me, mother of the boy,
Now what should I bestow?
Everything is possible
To fairies, you must know."

"If you were a fairy,"
The gentle mother said,
"And could you grant my simple wish
As soon as it has sped,
I'd have you stay the flight of years
For him upon my knee,
That he might never change,
But still my baby be!"

Mediterranean Excursion—By Mark Twain.

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.]

At Sea, June 23.—We had a pleasant ten days run from New York to the Azores Islands; not a fast run—for the distance is only 2,400 miles straight east—but an exceedingly pleasant one. We had palmy Summer weather, and the nights were even finer than the days. We had the phenomenon of a full moon located just in the same place in the heavens at the same hour every night. The reason of this singular conduct on the part of the moon did not occur to me at first, but it did afterward when I reflected that we were gaining about twenty minutes every day because we were going east so fast—we gained just about enough every day to keep along with the moon—it was becoming an old moon to the friends we left behind us, but to us Joshuas it stood still in the same place, and remained always the same.

Young William Blucher, who is from the far West, and is on his first voyage, was a good deal bothered by the constantly changing "ship time." He was proud of his new watch at first, and used to haul it out promptly when eight bells struck at noon, but he came to look after a while as if he were losing confidence in it. Seven days out from New York he came to me, and said with great decision:

"Think-yer's a swindle!"

"What is a swindle?"

"Why, this watch. I bought her out in Illinois to—give $150 for her—and I thought she was good. And, by George, she is good on shore, but somehow she don't keep up her luck here on the water—gets seasick, may be. She skips, she runs along regular enough till half past eleven, and then all of a sudden, she lets down. I've set that old regulator up faster and faster, till I've shoved it clear round, but it don't do any good; she just cleans out every watch in the ship, and clatters along in a way that's astonishing till noon, but then eight bells always gets in about ten minutes ahead of her any way. I don't know what to do with her now. She's doing all she can—she's going her best gait, but it won't save her. I'll bet there ain't a watch in the ship what's making better time than she is, but what does it signify? When you hear them eight bells you'll find her just about ten minutes short of her score sure." The ship was gaining a full hour every three days, and that fellow was trying to make the watch go fast enough to keep up with her. But as he had said, he had shoved the regulator up as far as it would go, and the watch was on its best gait, and so nothing was left him but to fold his hands and see the ship beat the race. I went him to the Captain, and he explained to him the mystery of "ship time," and set his troubled mind at rest. This is the young man who asked so many questions about seasickness before we left, and wanted to know what its characteristics were and how he was to tell when he had it. He found out.

We saw the usual sharks, blackfish, porpoises, etc., and large schools of Portuguese men-of-war were added to the regular list of sea wonders. Some of them were white and some of a bright carmine. The manitus is nothing but a transparent wash of jelly that spreads itself to catch the wind. Then fleshy looking stringers a foot or two long hang from it to keep it steady in the water. The manitus is an accomplished sailor and has a sailor judgment. It reefs its sails when a storm is in the offing or the wind blows pretty strong, and furls it entirely and goes down till a gale or hurricane is primarily at it keeps its sails wet and in good running order by turning over and flipping it in the water for a moment. Seamen say the manitus is only found in those waters between the thirty-sixth and forty-fifth parallel of latitude, and one of them told Blucher that when the rare pink manitus ones showed themselves to a ship where it was on the fortieth parallel that ship was about free disaster, and would go down in some far lone ocean solitude and never be heard of more—a fact that we were on the fortieth parallel was the story a vital interest with Blucher as long as him unhappy till the next new wonder of the sea was that darted on board and was captured from his mind from it.

At three o'clock in the morning of the 10th of June we were awakened and notified that the Azores Islands were in sight. I had only been in bed an hour and a half, and did not take any interest in islands. Not even the persecution came, and then another and another, and finally believing that the general enthusiasm would permit no one to slumber in peace, I got up and went sleepily on deck. It was half past five o'clock and a most blustering morning. The passengers were huddled about the smoke stacks and fortified behind rampart-ed coils, and all were wrapped in wintry overcoats and looking sleepy and unhappy in the pitiless gale and the drenching spray. The island in sight was Flores. It seemed only a mountain of mud rising up out of the dull mists of the sea. But as we bore down upon it the sun came out and made it a beautiful picture. It was a mass of green farms and meadows that swelled up to the height of 1,000 feet and mingled its upper outlines with the clouds. It was ribbed with sharp steep ridges, and clothed with narrow canyons, and here and there on the hights, rocky upheavals showed themselves into mimic battlements and castles, and out of rifted clouds came broad shafts of sunlight that painted summit and slope and glen with bands of fire, and left bolts of somber shade between. The aurora borealis of the frozen pole smiled to a summer land. We skirted around the thirds of the island, four miles from shore, and all the opera-glasses in the ship were called into requisition to settle disputes as to whether snowy spots on the uplands were groves of trees or groves of weeds, or whether the white villages down by the sea were really villages or only the clustering tombstones of cemeteries. Finally we stood to sea and bore away for San Miguel, and Flores shortly became a dome of mud again, and sank down among the mists and disappeared. But to many a sea-sick passenger it was good to see the green hills again, and all were more cheerful after this episode than anyone could have expected them to be, considering how sinfully early they had gotten up.

But we had to change our notions about San Miguel, for a storm came up toward noon that so pushed and tossed the vessel that common sense dictated a run for shelter. Therefore we steered for the nearest island of the group—Fayal (the people there pronounce it Fy all, and put the accent on the first syllable.) We anchored in the open roadstead of Horta, half a mile from the shore. The town has 8,000 to 10,000 inhabitants. Its snow-white houses nestle coyly in a sea of fresh green vegetation, and no village could look prettier or more attractive. It sits in the lap of an amphitheatre of hills which are from 300 to 700 feet high, and carefully cultivated clear to their summits—not a foot of soil left idle. Every farm and every acre is cut up into little square enclosures by stone walls, whose duty it is to protect the growing products from the destructive gales that blow there. These hundreds of green squares, marked by their black lava walls, make the hills look like vast checker boards.

This island belonged to Portugal, and everything in Fayal has Portuguese characteristics about it. But more of that anon. A swarm of swarthy, noisy, lying, shoulder shrugging, gesticulating Portuguese boatmen, with brass rings in their ears, and fraud in their hearts, climbed the ship's sides, and various parties of us contracted with them to take us ashore at twenty-five cents a head—silver coin of any country. We landed under the walls of a little fort, armed with batteries of 12 and 32-pounders, which Horta considers a most formidable institution, but if we were ever to get after it with one of our turreted monitors they would have to move it out into the country if they wanted it where they could find it again when they needed it. The group on the pier was a rusty one—men and women, and boys and girls, all ragged, and barefooted, and uncombed, and dirty, and by instinct, education and profession, beggars. They trooped after us, and never more, while we tarried in Fayal, did we get rid of them. We walked up the middle of the principal street, and these vermin surrounded us on all sides, and glared upon us; and every moment crooked couples shot ahead of the gang to get a good look back, just as village boys do when they accompany the elephant on his advertising trip from street to street. It was very flattering for me to be part of the material for such a sensation. Presently an old woman, with a fashionable Portuguese hood on, approached me. This hood is of thick blue cloth, attached to a cloak of the same stuff, and is a marvel of ugliness. It stands up high, and spreads far abroad, and is unfathomably deep. It fits like a circus tent, and a woman's head is hidden away in it like the man's who prompts the singers from his tin shed in the stage of an opera. There is no particle of trimming about this monstrous capote, as they call it—it is just a plain, ugly, dead-blue mass of sail, and a woman can't go within eight points of the wind or not at all. The general style of the capote is the same in all the islands, and will remain so for the next 10,000 year, but each island shapes its capotes just enough differently from the others to enable an observer to tell at a glance what particular island a lady hails from. Well, as we came along we overhauled a bent, wrinkled, and unspeakably homely old hag, with her capote standing high aloft. She was becalmed. Or rather, she was laying-to, around a corner, waiting for the wind to change. When she saw me she drifted out and held out her hand. Such friendliness in a strange land touched me, and I seized it. I shook it cordially, and said

"Madame, I do not know your name, but this not has graven your—your—peculiar features upon my heart, and there they shall remain while that heart continues to throb.

She drew her hand away and said something which I could not understand, and then kissed her palm to me and curtsied. I blushed and said:

"Madame, these attentions cannot but be flattering to me, but it must not be—alas, it cannot be—I am another's!" [I had to lie a little, because I was getting into a close place.]

She kissed her hand again and murmured sweet words of affection, but I was firm. I said:

"Away, woman—tempt me not! Your seductive blandishments are wasted upon one whose heart is far hence in the bright land of America. The jewel is gone—you behold here naught save the empty casket—and empty it shall remain till grim necessity drives me to fill the aching void with vile flesh, and drink, and cabbage. Avaunt, temptress!"

But she would not avaunt. She kissed her hand repeatedly and curtsied over and over again. I reasoned within myself. This unhappy woman loves me; I cannot reciprocate; I cannot love a foreigner; I cannot love a foreigner as homely as she is—if I could, I would dig her out of that capote and take her to my sheltering arms. I cannot love her, but this wholly beautiful affection she has conceived for me must not go unrewarded—it shall not go unrewarded. And so I said, "I will read to her my poetical paraphrase of the Declaration of Independence."

But all the crowd said, "No—shame, shame, shame! the poor old woman hasn't done anything!"

And they gave the poor old hag some Portuguese penalties like shuffle-board blunks and hustled her away, averring that she was begging and not making love, and thus, by the well-meaning stupidity of my comrades I was prevented from implanting a sweet memory on the soul of one who may go down to the grave with no sacred thing upon the altar of her heart but the ashes of a hopeless passion—and yet a stanza or two would have made her so happy.

Speaking of these prodigious Portuguese ponies, reminds me that it takes 1,000 reis (pronounced rays) to make a dollar, and that all financial estimates are made out in reis. We did not know this until after we had found it out, and we found it out through Blucher. Blucher said he was so happy and so grateful to be on land once more that he wanted to give a feast—said he had heard it was a cheap land and he was bound to have a grand banquet. He invited nine of us and we ate an excellent dinner at the principal hotel. In the midst of the jollity produced by good cigars, good wine and passable anecdotes, the landlord presented his bill. Blucher glanced at it and his countenance fell. He took another look to assure himself that his senses had not deceived him, and then read the items aloud, in a faltering voice, while the roses in his cheek turned to ashes:

"'Ten dinners at 600 reis, 6,000!' Rain and desolation!"

"'Twenty-five cigars at 100 reis, 2,500 reis!' Oh, my sainted mother!"

"'Eleven bottles of wine at 1,200 reis, 13,200 reis.' Be with us all! 'Total, 21,700 reis.' Great Cæsar's ghost, there ain't money enough in the ship to pay that bill. Go—leave me to my misery, boys, I'm a ruined community." I think it was the blankest looking party I ever saw. Nobody could say a word. It was as if every soul had suddenly been stricken dumb. Wine glasses descended slowly to the table, their contents untasted. Cigars dropped unnoted from nerveless fingers. Each man sought his neighbor's eye, but found in it no ray of hope, no encouragement. At last the fearful silence was broken. The shadow of a desperate resolve settled down upon Blucher's countenance like a cloud, and he rose and said:

"'Landlord, this is a wretched mean swindle, and I'll never, never stand it. Here's $150, sir, and it's all you'll get—I'll swim in blood, sir, before I'll pay a cent more.'"

Our spirits rose and the landlord's fell—at least we thought so; he was confused at any rate, notwithstanding he had not understood a word that had been said. He glanced from the little pile of gold pieces to Blucher several times and then went out. He must have visited an American, for, when he returned, he brought back his bill translated into language a Christian could understand—thus:

10 dinners, 6,000 reis, or	$6 00
25 cigars, 2,500 reis, or	2 50
11 bottles of wine, 13,200 reis, or	13 00
Total, 21,700 reis, or	[$21 70

Happiness reigned once more in Blucher's dinner party. More refreshments were ordered.

I think the Azores must be very little known in America. Out of our whole ship's company there was not a solitary individual who knew anything whatever about them. Some of the party, well read concerning most other lands, had no other information about the Azores than that they were a group of nine or ten small islands far out in the Atlantic something more than half-way between New York and Gibraltar. That was all. These considerations move me to put in a paragraph of dry facts, just here, which I might not venture to if I were writing about worn-out and written-out Europe.

The community is eminently Portugese—that is to say, it is slow, poor, shiftless, sleepy and lazy. There is a civil Government appointed by the King of Portugal, and a military Governor who can assume supreme control and suspend the civil Government at his pleasure. The islands contain a population of about 200,000, almost entirely Portugese. Everything is stayed and settled, for the country was 100 years old when Columbus discovered America. The principal crop is corn, and they raise it and grind it just as their great-great-great-grandfathers did. They plow with a board slightly shod with iron; their trifling little harrows are drawn by men and women; small wind-mills grind the corn—ten bushels a day, and and there is one assistant superintendent to feed the mill and a general superintendent to stand by and keep him from going to sleep. When the wind changes they hitch on some donkeys and actually turn around the whole upper half of the mill till the sails are in proper position, instead of fixing the concern so that the sails could be moved instead of the mill. Oxen tread the wheat from the ear, after the fashion prevalent in the time of Methuselah. There is not a wheel barrow in the land—they carry everything on their heads, or on donkeys, or in a wicker-bodied cart, whose wheels are solid blocks of wood and whose axles turn with the wheel. There is not a modern plow in the island, or a threshing machine. All attempts to introduce them have failed. The good Catholic Portugee crossed himself and prayed God to shield him from all blasphemous desire to know more than his father did before him. The ultimate is mild; they never have snow or ice, and I never saw any chimneys in the town. The donkeys and the men, women and children of a family, all eat and sleep in the same room, and are unclean, are ravaged by vermin, and are truly happy. The people lie, and detest the stranger, and are desperately ignorant, and have hardly any reverence for their dead. The latter trait shows how little better they are than the donkeys they eat and sleep with. The only well-dressed Portugese in the camp are the three or four well-to-do families, the Jesuit priests and the soldiers of the little garrison. The wages of the laborer are from 20 to 24 cents a day, and those of a good mechanic about twice as much. They count it in reis at a thousand to the dollar, and this makes them rich and contented. Fine grapes used to grow in the island, and an excellent wine was made and exported. But a disease killed all the vines fifteen years ago, and since that time no wine has been made. The islands being wholly of volcanic origin, the soil is necessarily very rich. Nearly every foot of ground is under cultivation, and two or three crops a year of each article are produced, but nothing is exported save a few oranges—chiefly to England.

The mountains on some of the islands are very high. We sailed along the shore of the island Pico, under a stately green pyramid that rose up with one unbroken sweep from our very feet to an altitude of 7,613 feet, and thrust its summit above the white clouds like an island adrift in a fog!

We get plenty of fresh oranges, lemons, figs, apricots, &c., in these Azores, of course. But I will desist. I am not here to write Patent Office reports.

We are on our way to Gibraltar, and will reach there five or six days out from the Azores.

Are you aware that the Promontories of Consumption are Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pains in the Side and Chest, Difficulty of Breathing, &c.? If you permit these symptoms to run on, Tubercles will be the result, and end in Consumption. Now, if you want to cure these diseases, use Allen's Lung Balsam without delay. Consumptives should never give up and think there is no hope! until you have tried Allen's Lung Balsam. It has cured many cases that physicians pronounced incurable. Sold by dealers in Family Medicines generally.

SHATTERED CONSTITUTIONS RESTORED by HEMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

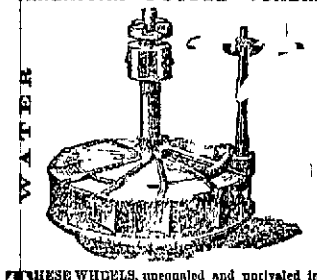
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

Travelers are always liable to sudden attacks of dysentery and cholera morbus, and those occurring when absent from home are very unpleasant. PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER may always be relied upon in such cases. As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and a glass, and a gill of hot water. Stir well together and drink hot. Repeat the dose every hour until relieved. If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine, clear.

Fishermen, so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks and fins of fish, can be much relieved by bathing with a little Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated; baths as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble. Sold by dealers everywhere.

MANHOOD AND YOUTHFUL VIGOR are regained by HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

LEFFEL'S
AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE



THESE WHEELS, unequaled and unrivaled in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, more than forty being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery, Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories, &c., &c.

On account of the late calamity to the OREGON IRON WORKS we have but a few Wheels, but of these ones we have a good supply, therefore those contemplating using this Wheel need not be disappointed, but forward their order at once, accompanied with the CASH, which we now need more than the Wheels.

We cheerfully refer to all using our wheels, and are assured that all will affirm that our wheels accomplish all and even more than we claim for them. Address

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in San Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street. aug23d3m4p
